

ABSTRACT

To provide a terminal device whereby a conference can be conducted smoothly by users inputting handwritten information.

- A terminal device comprises: display means for displaying a background image
- 5   in accordance with background image data; reception means for receiving handwritten data indicating the content of notes handwritten on a medium the background image is drawn, the medium is placed on a handwritten input device; and reproduction means for displaying the content of handwritten notes superimposed on the displayed background image so that, in accordance with the handwritten data,
  - 10   the position of the content of the handwritten notes on the background image on the medium and the position of the background image displayed by the display means correspond.